The Legislature.

The general assembly will be called to order this morning in adjourned session, and will begin one of the most important legislative sessions ever held in the state.

The strength of the body is such as to guarantee that the state's interests will be well cared for, and the people may rest satisfied that the deliberations of their representatives will be characterized by wisdom, prudence, and, let us hope, progress.

This session will be the first to occupy the magnificent new capitol; now furnished and ready for the legislature, which will probably settle itself in it today, after meeting in the old building. In going from the old to the new, let THE CONSTITUTION admonish the people's representatives to leave in that old building all that is little and not in keeping with the greatness or the dignity of the state, and to take with them only that which looks to the glory and the progress of the state!

Let the spirit of the demagogue remain in its old haunts, and let the sentiment of the legislature be so clearly expressed that it can never flourish amid the magnificent surroundings of the new capitol!

As a text for the formal opening of the new building, and as a study on which legislators may reflect with profit, we invite the attention of the members to the two word pictures painted by John Temple Graves, in his recent superb address at Athens on "The Demagogue." We print them with the fullness of our endorsement. They are:

"Wherever the people have a voice in government there will be found two men moving towards its ruin. One is a man of the mob, and the other is a man of the mob. He follows broad politics, he follows the mob, and he follows the mob."

Impulse which stir his own purpose and actual life. He has no high argument to address the reason, no noble sentiment to reach the soul, and, for lack of this, he robs the ashes of batteries, and quickens the passions and prejudices of a class. Envy and spite and discontent are stirred to the service of his hope, and where sophistry has failed him, and prejudice is impotent and passion dull, he pulls his energies for the first time, directs his tongue toward the pocket of the mob, and summons his way where patriots might despair."

Phelps's Bangs and Red Necktie.

"Style is the man," said somebody in the course of a few remarks about something or other, and whatever he meant by it there is doubtless a good deal in it.

One is compelled to think of the subtle potentialities of style when he sees William Walter Phelps. The new minister to Germany is better known by his bangs and red necktie than by anything else. His bangs and red necktie attracted attention from the first. It was impossible to overlook them in a crowd. On the street, at the opera, and in congress, men and women forgot the business of the occasion until they had first ascertained the name of the owner of the startling bangs and the flaming tie.

This conspicuous style has done something more than advertising. Phelps is now fifty years old, but his bangs and tie make him look like a young man in the thirties.

It is no reflection upon a man's mental caliber when he pays attention to the accessories of dress. Disraeli was a showy, dazzling fop. Chatham dressed for a great speech as carefully as an actor getting ready for the stage. Webster knew how to array himself in a costume that would impress the crowd.

So we may take it for granted that Mr. William Walter Phelps knows exactly what he is about when he arranges his bangs, and encircles his shapely neck in a strip of cardinal red.

The McDow Verdict.

The verdict in the McDow case has occasioned a good deal more comment at the north than it has at the south, where all the facts are understood, and where the probable result was discerned as soon as the jury was drawn.

The comment has been on widely different lines. As we had occasion to show yesterday, the New York World alluded to the fact that there were seven negroes on the jury as a hopeful sign. When the verdict was rendered it placed the blame on the state's counsel, characterizing them as a set of imbeciles. In its issue of Monday, however, the World shows that it at last realizes the situation as it is, and the danger that grows out of it.

The Philadelphia Press, which is violently republican whenever the south is up for discussion, practically excuses the verdict on the ground that the negro jurors, under all the circumstances, cannot be severely censured for giving way to their prejudices. "This is no doubt the view of the average republicans—that the negroes, having been imposed on by the whites, are amply justified in turning murderers loose if it can be proved that they have taken the lives of prominent white citizens."

But, a part from all political or race considerations, the verdict in the McDow case is a signal that the south is compelled to give ear. It is a result that more than justifies the attitude of the southern people since the war, and it is a warning to them of the danger that lurks behind any proposition to relax their vigilance or to surrender their unity.

When blind and ignorant prejudice seizes the first opportunity to strike the sword and scales from the hands of justice, it enables the south to see more clearly the dangers her people have escaped by standing together and the dangers they will invite by the least lack of harmony and unity.

Here is a problem portentous enough in all its shapes to overshadow all other issues and policies. It is the most important and the most dangerous problem that has ever confronted any people. Compared with it, all the chatter about the tariff in which some of our democratic contemporaries are disposed to indulge is worse than insignificant.

The south is in no position to worry over issues that even remotely threaten division among democrats and a defeat of the democratic party. Practically, there is but one issue, and that is the negro problem.

The northern people are responsible for the McDow verdict, responsible for the attitude of the negroes and responsible for all the evils that grow out of an ignorant, a prejudiced and a grossly corrupt suffrage. The north is responsible for these things, but it is the south that will have to provide a remedy, and to this task our people should address themselves most constantly.

Fiction in New England.

Some of the New England papers are squirming in a very anxious way over the contrast made by Cardinal Manning in a recent article in the Forum between crime in a group of southern states in 1860 and in the New England states.

The contrast is very interesting. Thus in the six New England states on the 30th of June, 1860, there were no less than 2,450 persons imprisoned for crime, while in the six southern states—Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia—there were only 1,000 persons in prison for crime. There were 35,945 native white inhabitants in New England, and 3,181,969 in the southern group.

These figures do not suit our New England exchanges, and they are making a desperate effort to explain them away. Among those who have tried the explaining-away experiment is the notorious Judge Tourgee, who brings all his fictive and romantic gifts to bear on the situation.

Judge Tourgee's explanation is a very simple one. He declares that in 1860 there was not a single penitentiary or state prison in the group of southern states included in the comparison, and his declaration receives the hearty endorsement of the Boston Journal.

This explanation is very simple one. In fact, it is as easy as lying. As a matter of fact, there was not a state in the southern group that did not have a state prison in 1860. If Judge Tourgee or the Boston Journal have any other explanations that are plausible we shall be glad to consider and discuss them.

The Legislature and Its Work.

We welcome the legislature which assembles in the new capitol today. It is not necessary to say that it is the broadest and best legislature we have had here for years. Its record of last winter bespeaks that praise for them, and what is admirable in the record, is trite in simple speech.

It is well that Georgia is fitly represented, for great questions are to be settled and great problems solved at the session which opens today. Great interests are to be disposed of and important lines of policy established. It is well, therefore, we repeat, that these large affairs are lodged with men of brains, of courage and high character.

It is well, also, that this body assembles in a new capitol building that embodies a great lesson of economy and comprehension, of integrity and ability. Surely the lesson that is built into that monumental pile—the lesson of devotion, fidelity, of broad-reaching sagacity and of pains taking care—this lesson will surely inspire the thoughtful men who sit within its honest walls and know that no state and no country can match the story of its building.

We give the gentlemen of the senate and house hearty welcome to Atlanta, which is to say a welcome to their own, for here in her capital city, beats the great heart of the old commonwealth. If you find it hot stay till it gets cooler and make yourselves at home always in the city whose proudest boast is that it is the capital of your state.

A Very Small Matter.

The green two cent postage stamp will have to go. Postmaster-General Wanamaker has already issued his edict, and the color adopted by the Cleveland administration for the unit stamp of letter postage will be supplanted by the old venetian red.

It is a very small matter, but there has been a bigger row raised over this little green stamp than over any other one thing connected with the late administration.

Without expressing a preference for any particular color, we do not hesitate to say that a government should select a postage stamp of a certain size and color, and stick to it. This way of changing from one color to another encourages the idea that in our republic nothing is stable or enduring. A government should preserve old forms and old fashions in its economies and business when they do not interfere with progress.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker will find that something more than changing the color of a stamp will be necessary to make his administration of the postoffice department a success.

The greatest men this country has produced had the advantage of starting poor. A young lad of Kentucky has been fasting for twenty-four days. She missed the Derby.

This average Chicago citizen doesn't know at what moment he will be arrested as a suspect.

One of the first duties of Frederick Douglass will be to teach the Haytiens how to comb their hair without using a jincrow card. The Samoan conference was carried on in English, and a Chicago paper quaintly observes that this is a great victory for the language. This announcement, coming from Chicago, is important.

The people of England are said to be very enthusiastic over the marriage of the prince of Wales's oldest daughter to an Englishman. This is very funny when you remember that the British have been ruled by Germans for a great many years.

It is charged that the Chicago press club manages to survive by bulldozing benches out of actors and musicians.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

THE SHAR of Persia may have trouble in London. A socialist orator has advised the people to assemble in the streets and burn the shar as a barbarian and murderer, whom nervous royalty and aristocracy delight to honor.

THE BOSTON TRANSCRIPT says: Literature is looking up in the great southwest. The Memphis Avalanche contains the following advertisement of an anti-pining service:

JOURNALIST AND WRITER.
Newspapers articles of all kinds written. Letters, essays, reports, circulars, etc., written or arranged for publication. Specimens prepared, descriptive articles, advertisements, local notices, any kind of articles, from a love letter to a challenge, or from a sermon to a theater party written. All communications strictly confidential. Address care business office of either daily paper.

But it is not that "year" hasn't the slightest affection of literary pride about it. There are lots of "literary folk" in this part of the country now, who are making a pretty penny out of it. They haven't a title of the courage of their conviction that Mr. F. C. Wright has. Why doesn't some of them follow his example, and advertise in each of the city papers a prospectus of that sort? There may be thousands in it to be lost.

A WRITER in the Boston Transcript says yesterday that New York in the summer does not see the New Yorkers—they see only a crowd of southern and western men. During the hot season all the New Yorkers who have any means are in the mountains and at the sea.

An Announcement!

About July 1 the Ph. H. Postell Mill Company will start their new mill just completed at Moscontab, and the new machinery just placed in the old mill will also be ready for operation by that time.After that date we will be able to fill all orders for Postell's flour promptly. After Thursday of this week we can fill orders for Piedmont Patent and Moscontab Star, but the orders for Elegant will have to wait a little longer.
We return our sincere thanks to our customers for their patience. We will ship fast as flour is received. There never was such a demand for Postell's flour before. The sales in Atlanta are three times larger than last year, and from New York to New Orleans the demand has been unprecedented. Orders from New York City for a thousand barrels of Elegant at a time had to be declined only because the demand has been so great.The new wheat flour will meet the highest expectations. "We continue to press for the highest mark," says Mr. Postell, and the most magnificent flour either for pastry, cake or bread is proof of the attainment.

Watermill watermelons they are ice.

Reader, what is more delightful than an ice-cold thoroughly ripe, red meat watermelon? We say "watermelon" because we are advised by a great daily that this is correct. In any event, it is delightful, melon or million. We are disposed to believe, though, that millions of melons will be bought and sold this season in Atlanta, and we want to put the public on notice that we are better prepared to deliver, free, large, fine, fresh, ice-cold melons than any house in Atlanta. We must have it understood that if you buy melons from us that they will be cold—taken right off the ice. Now, if you intend buying a melon, you might as well buy a cold one. We charge no more for them, and you have the satisfaction of knowing that if you buy one from us that it is just as you would have it, for there is no more pleasant eating than a cold, ice-cold Georgia melon. Now, as to quality and variety. At all times they will be fresh. We will have on hand the "Kob Gm," "Jones's Sweet," the favorite "Rattlesnake," "Augusta's Sugarloaf," and almost any kind you may want, and remember they at all times will be ice-cold. So, now we have posted you, you are in possession of facts that will give you pleasure and save you money. We have just received another invoice of fresh cracked wheat, rye flour, oat meal, A, B and C sizes, white wheat Graham flour, and all cereals made by that prince of manufacturers, Ferdinand Schumaker.
Just received, also, more fresh compressed yeast—Fermentum. Send us stamps and we will mail you what you want. Don't forget our ice-cold watermelons.

A DAY IN COURT.

A CHANGE AROUND OF COURTS AND COURT OFFICERS.

A Number of Cases Decided in City Court—Judge Clarke Presiding in Chambers—New Suits Filed.

Things at the courthouse are somewhat changed about this week.

Judge Howard Van Epps holds his court in the superior courtroom, while Judge Marshall J. Clarke metes out justice at his chambers.

This arrangement has been made in order to give the city court offenders the benefit of the coolness which pervades the superior court rooms, and also that the lower court room may be renovated.

Judge Clarke will adjourn the superior court today until the first Monday in September, when the regular fall session begins.

Judge Clarke leaves in a few days for the mountains, where he will spend his vacation.

The city court will continue in session all week, except tomorrow, when there will be no session on account of the day being a legal holiday.

Judge Van Epps continued the trial of criminal cases yesterday, and they will be carried on from day to day until all are disposed of. There are 179 more on the docket, but most of them are small and unimportant cases and will be pushed through as fast as possible.

This morning the sheriff will render a report of the number of jail cases. These will be taken up and disposed of first.

Motions for New Trials.

At chambers yesterday Judge Marshall Clarke was engaged in hearing motions for new trials.

These were the motion on which argument was heard:

Dooley against the Georgia Pacific Railroad company. The case was tried last at a month ago, and a verdict of $15,000 rendered for the plaintiff.

A $10,000 verdict in favor of Long against the Western and Atlantic is sought to be set aside by a motion for new trial.

Argument was heard in the case of McLenahan against Perino Brown. In a garnishment case against the Western and Atlantic Railroad company a verdict was found for the latter, and the contest is on that ground.

A petition for alimony was heard by Judge Clarke. The case was brought against J. S. Land by his recently divorced wife. Part of the evidence was heard, when more witnesses will be introduced.

In all the motions for new trials Judge Clarke deferred final decision until the September term, when they will be rendered immediately after opening of court.

City Court.

No important cases were tried before Judge Van Epps yesterday. In fact some of those passed upon were of so trifling a nature that the judge took occasion to criticize and reprimand some of the justices for binding over such trivial offenders.

C. E. Phillips was up for assault and battery. On the 24th April he had a difficulty with Charles Bowerly and a very curious weapon was introduced in evidence as being the instrument with which the assault was made. It was a short fence rail with wooden pins stuck through it and looked like an immense comb. It created no little amusement among the spectators.

A bullet was also brought forward to convict Phillips, but the jury thought otherwise and he was acquitted.

It was this case that called forth the judge's reprimand.

A Pistol Toter.

Major Yancey, a young white man, was found guilty of carrying concealed weapons. Yancey placed the charge on the influence of liquor, and the pistol was found on his person. The barrel and handle of the pistol were sticking in his belt in front, and the cylinder, which was loaded, was in his coat pocket, but he denied carrying it. On the ground it was claimed that the pistol was useless, and the jury, taking this view of it, found Sweet not guilty of the charge.

Sally Sims Goes Free.

Sally Sims, a white woman, was on trial for fornication, but was acquitted. Jim Johnson, the other party in the case, is still in jail, and will probably remain there for a week or more, until his trial comes on.

A Couple of Suits Filed.

In the superior court yesterday Mary Westbrook filed a petition for total divorce from her husband, John Westbrook. The petition sets forth that the pair were married in '83, and alleges as a ground of action that the defendant is a habitual drunkard, and prays for a total separation because of this, together with cruel treatment and desertion. There are no children and no alimony is asked.

C. C. Macready and a half dozen other men were introduced for the state, but Mr. John Clay Smith, who appeared for the defendant, challenged the evidence of a majority of them on account of their having been sworn in another court. The jury failed to make out a case for the state, and Jett was acquitted.

Another Pistol Carrier.

R. Sweat was before Judge Van Epps for carrying concealed weapons. He was arrested about two weeks ago while under the influence of liquor, and the pistol was found on his person. The barrel and handle of the pistol were sticking in his belt in front, and the cylinder, which was loaded, was in his coat pocket, but he denied carrying it. On the ground it was claimed that the pistol was useless, and the jury, taking this view of it, found Sweet not guilty of the charge.

GEORGIA'S CROPS.

What the June Report of the Department Will Show.

Colonel R. J. Redding, of the state agricultural department, was busy yesterday making out his crop report for June.

The reports received so far, he said, show the crops to be in fine condition, the recent rains having done much good. It will, however, be impossible to make a full crop of cotton this year.

The corn crop is the best on record. Wheat is doing well and is of fine quality, but the area planted is much smaller than usual. The encouraging reports are attributed to the rains, which have been very general.

POLICE VS. LAWYERS.

A Great Game to Be Played Monday Evening.

There will be a big baseball game at Grant park next Monday.

The police will play the lawyers.

The game will be played for the benefit of a fund that is to provide for officers disabled in the public service.

A large crowd will witness the game. Tickets will be on sale Thursday, and every man, woman and child that enjoys the protection of the police should attend.
